L & J Announces Several Organizational Changes

Reading, Oct 28, 2011: L & J announced that they had a few promotions and reorganized their internal departments. L & J has been in business since October 1990; they recently celebrated their 20th anniversary and now they celebrated three promotions and one transfer.

Stephanie Fry, formerly L & J's Operations Manager, was transferred to L & J's sales force. Ms. Fry takes the role of Corporate Account Sales. In this new position, she will seek new corporate accounts to acquire more business and promote growth for L & J. She welcomed the transfer ecstatically and plans to "hit the ground running".

The first promotion announced was to Ismael Rivera; he took the position as Operations Manager. Mr. Rivera was promoted from the Dispatcher position which he held with L & J for three months. He comes from a long history in the transportation industry starting as a laborer. L & J is excited for his promotion and expects great results with him as the head of the department.

Josette Grillo, an employee of L & J for six years, was promoted to Senior Move Manager. In her new position, she will manage other move managers and oversee all national account moves. Mrs. Grillo's attention to detail, calm nature and excellent customer advocacy are the elements that landed her promotion.

Lastly, was the promotion of Christopher Fry. Mr. Fry took the role as Office Manager; he will oversee the day to day operations of the office and all of its employees. His approachable demeanor and ability to enforce accountability led him to the forefront. Mr. Fry also holds the position of IT Manager for the company and has made major headway with L & J's website and overall presence on the internet.

L & J welcomes the growth and looks forward to hiring new employees and continuing to promote from within the company.
